

A large, minimalist, yellow and orange geometric structure, possibly a pavilion or sculpture, stands on a beach at sunset. The structure is composed of several flat, angular planes. The sky is filled with soft, white and grey clouds, and the sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm glow on the structure and the wet sand. The background shows dark, silhouetted hills or mountains.

ircam
Centre
Pompidou

SAISON

18.19

www.ircam.fr